OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Mr. Rohan Sees The Light

By MYRON J. BIENSTOCK

ROD COOPER tucked his empty right sleeve back into his pocket, and glanced apprehensively at the house numbers above the door. Twelve-zero-four, the letter in answer to the application for a room, was in the opposing residence of Joseph Rohan, the almost legendary head of Inter-American Steel, one of the greatest steel mills in the country.

He squared his shoulders, swept his usually strait and hair back into place, and pressed the bell. His lean, sensitive face was tense, a worried look in his dark eyes. The door opened, and a maid looked at him questioningly.

"My name is Cooper," he said. "Mr. Rohan is expecting me."

"Will you come in, please?" she replied, staring at his empty sleeve. He flushed angrily, and stepped in to the hall.

"You may wait here, sir," she said. "I see if Mr. Rohan is busy." She disappeared through a doorway at the opposite end of the hall. "Go right in, sir," she said quietly, when she returned. "Mr. Rohan will see you now."

Rod stepped through the carved oak doors into a large, well-appointed study. The walls were panelled in dark oak, with row upon row of heavy books in shelves running half way to the high ceiling. A deep Persian rug muffled his steps. The panels of the study doors had reduced the study to semi-darkness.

"Step right over here, Mr. Cooper," came a mild, clear voice from the man in a chair in the corner. "Sit down, and we'll talk business."

As Rod approached the deep leather chair, he saw a small animal. A large, handsome dog was stretched out in front of him, eying him suspiciously. He skirted the animal, and sank into the chair.

"Don't mind Champ," Rohan said. "He's suspicious of everybody. We've very often had to take him. He laughs good merrily. He never leaves my side for a minute. Why, he even goes to the plant with me." He paused a moment.

"I guess you think it's strings to call you down here," said Mr. Cooper. "But it's not my usual custom," he continued. "I'm recovering from a rather nasty cold, and won't be able to get back to the offices at the plant for another few days. You see," he added, "I like to take a personal interest in hiring the employees of Inter-American."

He leaned back in his chair, holding his spectacles, a wiry man with a full, ruddy face, and grey hair. His faded blue eyes stared past Rod, and rested on the wall.

"Tell me son, how was it over there?" he asked. "I see from your letter of application you were in the Pacific. Pretty rough, I suppose?"

Rod laughed heartily, and then said, "I'm not quite sure, Mr. Rohan, it was pretty rough. Nothing I would recommend for the kiddies."

"Oh yes, sorry, Rod." He paused uncomfortably, and after a moment, continued. "Hope you don't mind, I call you Rod, son. He raised his eyebrows thoughtfully.

"No, sir. That's quite all right."

"Well, then, suppose we get down to business," the old man continued.

"I see you worked for the Grey Company for four years. Why didn't you go back to your old job?"

"They went out of business, sir. That lets me out, I'm afraid."

"Well, sir, I'm your son?" Rohan asked, his eyes shifting back to Rod, and then down to the desk.

"What position did you hold?"

"Well, sir, I started as a junior accountant." Rod answered, "and rose to assistant to the head of the department by the time I entered the service."

"Humm," murmured the old man, "that's travelling quite a distance in three—no, four years, wasn't it? Of course," he continued rapidly, "I don't think you advance so quickly in our organization. We're rather large, you know. But I think you know we don't hesitate to reward good work." He paused, and toyed with the letter on his desk.

"There's on thing that makes me hesitate, Rod," he continued, some more slowly. "I'm afraid you have a letter of application that you lost an arm in the service. Were you right or left handed, son?"

Cold beads of sweat popped out on Rod's forehead. It was the same question they all asked. How many men were good enough to be promoted? More? He could still see the looks in their eyes as they shook their heads. "Well, keep you in mind if there's an opening," they would say, as they coughed politely.

Couldn't they realize that it was more than just a job to him? Hamilton, Ontario, was his home town. The place he had come from. The place he had come to. More? He felt deep inside him, that it was his Holy Grail. Its capture would signify that he was a useless hulk of a man, a burden on the community; an object of pity from which people averted their eyes.

No, they would put R in his words, those personnel men. "Not enough experience, Mr. Cooper." No, not enough experience, as they turned their eyes from that empty sleeve.

Suddenly a new thought flashed on him. He had been told that he had been left-handed. He would tell him that his ability hadn't been impaired. The old man would never know the difference, after the practice he had got in the hospital. His left hand was almost as good as his right now.

Besides, the industrial world no doubt forget about him, once he had been hired.

He opened his mouth to speak, but a tight fist gripped his vocal cords.

His forehead glistened with perspiration, his hands were sweating. He was only a substitute. A lie, which would be constantly eating at his self-respect, and would never give him peace.

"I was right handed, Mr. Rohan," he said, "but I'm left-handed in my right arm, sir," he said, suddenly, "I'm not perfect yet, but I can keep accounts fairly legibly, writing left handed." He paused, watching the old man. Rohan's face assumed an impasse. He hummed with the letter, and rubbed his hand over his chin.

The same as all the rest, Rod thought. They won't even look directly at me. Probably thinking of the easiest way to say it. He laughed bitterly at his own foolishness.

The old man looked up suddenly. "You Cooper," he stated, "you report for work on Monday."

Rod leaned forward, his eyes wide, as the words crashed home to him. "You mean I... I'm hired?" His voice lifted eagerly. "I can't believe it, sir. I can't believe it."

"You don't have to thank me, son," the industrialist laughed. "I know you'll do well at the job." He smiled. "Reminds me," he said reminiscingly, "of the time I asked for a Democracy does not depend on who you elect to rule but on how you elect to live.

Well, Pat, said the friend at the bedside of the dying Irishman have you made your peace with God and denounced the devil?

Sure, and I've made my peace with God but I'm in no position to antagonize anyone.

Will: "I wish I was dead."

Friend: "Can't you marry her, or did you?"

Beavers Elude Trapping Party

An organized beaver hunt in the Residents of the Didsbury district

Didsbury area a couple of weeks ago wound up with the beaver on the winning side. Not one was trapped.

Game officer Joe Cardinal, with William Benesch and William Rehn of Wildwood, comprised the party. Beaver Farm at Wildwood, 70 miles west of Edmonton.

lodged complaints of damage being done by beaver and asked that they be trapped and transplanted elsewhere.

Mr. Benesch was contacted for his experience as operator of the Lobstick Beaver Farm at Wildwood, 70 miles west of Edmonton.

The party moved to Pine Lake from Didsbury. Beaver trapped on the Waskaso near Red Deer were transplanted by Mr. Cardinal to Pine Lake three years ago. Since then the numbers have so increased that thinning out is necessary.

Paton's Baking Service

Paton's Baking Service, engaged in the production of baked goods of superior quality, are building for themselves an enviable reputation for the quality and the flavor of their products. The popularity of their bread, pastries and other baked goods is strongly and surely attested in the large and rapidly increasing patronage that this firm is enjoying. Paton's Baking Service products meets and satisfies the taste of the most discriminating.

Paton's Baking Service is located in Bellevue, and is under the management of the proprietor, Mr. R. Y. Paton, who took over the business formerly operated by Mr. H. Meade in June of 1946. Mr. Paton has had over 25 years experience in the baking business and is fully conversant with all its phases.

Success and happiness depend upon health, and health depends upon what food we eat. Good bread is essential to every man, woman and child. All the products of Paton's Baking Service are baked in a most wholesome manner, and nothing is used in the process but the very best of ingredients mixed and baked by means of scientific, clean, sanitary equipment which is operated by skilled bakers. Their long, untiring efforts have been rewarded with success by the production of this bread of unusual merit.

Today the responsibility of making good bread has been placed upon the baker. Recognizing this responsibility, Paton's Baking Service, backed by its efforts to make an even better bread, now gives the people of this entire community a bread that is second to none.

There I was forced down on a desert island with a lovely blonde.

What did you do for food?

Darned if I can remember.

Business is on the spot where it can bring about an unparalleled wave of strikes if its price increases add up appreciably more than any additions to the worker's pocket book, says Sales Management. Business is on the spot where it can price itself right out of one market after another if it is greedy and takes the last penny it can get now. And business is on the spot where it must prove, for a long time to come, whether or not our largely unregulated private enterprise system works well for the great mass of people. If it doesn't, and we have a boom followed by a bust, then look for government controls such as we have never seen here.

HILLCREST ITEMS

Mr. J. Clarke is a patient in the Bellevue hospital, following an appendectomy.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Ford, of Lethbridge, were Wednesday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Moser.

A very successful tea, sale and display of hand work was held by the Busy Bees last Saturday afternoon. Approximately $90 was netted. Mrs. J. Hyslop and Mrs. P. Stefano are the leaders of this very enterprising group of youngsters.

Mrs. Leskovsky and Mrs. F. Spence are both in Calgary this week, undergoing medical observation.

Pock-Ashmore Wedding

A background of pink and white streamers was the setting for the evening wedding on Saturday in the United church of Faye Adeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ashmore, of Hillcrest, and Joseph Charles Pock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pock, of Frank.

Dr. R. Magowan of Coleman read the marriage lines.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a grey suit.

Good gosh, officer, what were those two men fighting over that they bashed one another up so badly?

Officer: They were arguing about what kind of peace settlement we should make after the next war.

complimented with white shoes and a small white hat with flower trim; she wore a corsage of roses. Miss Rita Poch, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, attired in a turquoise gown and matching hat, her corsage was of carnations.

Peter Blas was groomsman and little Karen Rhodes, niece of the bride, was flower girl, very dainty in pale yellow and carrying a bouquet of carnations and sweet peas.

Miss June Lawrence played the wedding music and during the signing of the register accompanied Miss Shirley Ashmore, who sang "I love You Truly."

Following the ceremony a reception for 80 guests was held at the home of the groom's parents, where the bride's table was centred with a tired wedding cake.

After their honeymoon the young couple will reside in Frank.

HELP IN CASE OF ACCIDENT

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION: Prone Method.

Some injuries such as electric shock, drowning, gas poisoning, choking interfere with breathing and may cause asphyxiation, unless normal breathing is promptly restored. Artificial respiration should be restored to bring this about, but remember, SEND FOR A DOCTOR IMMEDIATELY.

Lay the patient prone, (face down), the head "downhill", if possible, with one arm extended directly overhead, and the other arm bent at the elbow to form a resting place for the head so that nose and mouth are free for breathing.

Kneel, straddling the patient's thighs, with palms of the hands on the small of the back, and fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, and the fingers extended straight down.

With arms held straight swing forward slowly bringing the weight of the body gradually upon the patient, so that the shoulder in this position is directly over the heel of the hand at the end of the forward swing. Do not bend elbows. Then immediately swing backward so as to remove the pressure completely. After two seconds, repeat the pressure and release, the complete swing forward and backward to take four or five seconds, or 12 to 15 times a minute. Continue without interruption until the patient breathes naturally.

Patients have been revived after as long as four hours or more by this method. Keep up the artificial respiration and do not allow patient, even if he starts to breathe naturally, to stand or sit up. Keep patient warm and if doctor has not arrived by the time patient has revived, give light stimulants, 1 tea-spoon of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water or hot drink of coffee or tea. Watch patient to see that normal breathing continues, and if natural breathing stops, begin artificial respiration again. If necessary, to change operator, the change should be made without losing the rhythm of respiration.

Education And The Future

THE THEORY THAT THE TRAINING of its youth is of the greatest importance to the future of any country has long been an accepted fact, and education holds an important place in the public interest almost everywhere. This is true in Canada, where in most communities much attention is directed to the operation of the schools. Under the chairmanship of Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Toronto, and an outstanding educationalist, the Canadian Youth Commission has been carrying on studies in connection with education in this country, and many interesting and challenging facts have been brought forth in reports made on the results of these studies.

Attract Ablest To Profession The Commission, which "probed the mind of Canadian youth in regard to education," has found that there is agreement among Canadian young people that the best conditions which we now have for education in the most favored communities should be extended to all Canadian children everywhere. Teaching is held to be so attractive that the ablest of our youth will be attracted to it as a profession, and that more attention should be paid to the health of children in the schools. It also recommends that a school should be developed to meet the needs of the children to the fullest extent, with the object of fitting each child to make its maximum contribution to society.

The Need For New Schools The Commission, which "probed the mind of Canadian youth in regard to education," has found that there is agreement among Canadian young people that the best conditions which we now have for education in the most favored communities should be extended to all Canadian children everywhere. British Farmers Grow More Grain

LONDON.—British farmers have hit the first target in their five-year plan to guarantee more home-grown wheat and potatoes in 1948. The ministry of agriculture says reports from England show that since 1945 234,000 acres of wheat have been sown, an increase of 265,000 over last year. More than 73,000 additional acres have been found for potatoes, bringing the total to 1,914,810.

Plan Film Workshop For Central Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Man.—The organization of a film workshop in south central Manitoba for late summer was the theme of an address by D. E. Woodward, president of the Canadian Film Council, before the Canadian Film Board for Western Ontario and Manitoba, to the delegates attending the film council conference in the Green Lantern here. Technical training will be provided in the use of cameras, sound equipment, including sound projectors, film strip projectors, and wire recorders. The conference decided to retain Altona as the main film repository for this area, which includes Lowe Farm, Roland, Manitoba, and Winkler.

SOUVENIR OF PARIS VISIT—Princess Elizabeth and her consort, the Duke of Edinburgh, are shown as they posed for their portrait at the British Embassy in Paris on the occasion of their visit to the French capital. The couple were received from French Minister of War, General Georges Catroux, and the Duke of Guise. The princess wears the Grand Cordon of Legion of Honor and the Duke the Croix de Guerre. One-Ounce Letters Go By Air Mail

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Mabel: "She had six reasons for leaving him. In the first place, his money was all gone—"

Edith: "Never mind the other five—"

Wife: "Dear, would you like to have mother for lunch?"

Husband: "No thanks. My digestion isn't what it used to be."

He was celebrating his seventieth birthday and the neighbors had gathered round.

"Don't you hate to grow old?" one of them asked the aging man.

"No," he snapped back. "If I weren't old, I'd be dead!"

Gert and Myrt were filling in applications for new positions.

"How's where you says Date, Myrt?" he asked.

"How'd you think, Gert?"

Gert volved her amazement.

"Don't be a drap, woman, I wrote

Yester."

Tynist: "Do you know what time I have to get up to be here by nine?"

Boss: "No. Why not get here by nine and cut out?"

"What was the result of that terrible fight the Duchess had with her husband?"

"She retains the title."

Bill: "What is the hardest thing you ever did?"

Will: "Make ten easy payments."

First Selectee: I feel like I'd like to punch that sergeant in the nose again.

Second Selectee: Again?

First Selectee: Yes, I feel like it yesterday."

Henpeck, safely out of his wife's hearing for once, was letting himself go. To a friend, who complained of some domestic difficulty, he said grandly: "My dear boy, never have troubles of that sort in our house. I say a thing is to be done, I insist upon it being done."

"And is it?"

"Of course," replied Henpeck, "ever—ever if I have to do it myself."

Canada Improving Trade Position

OTTAWA.—Canada continues to make progress in correcting her unfavorable trade position with the United States and is steadily in her American dollar situation.

However, she still buys much more from that country than she sells there, and continues to have a dollar problem which she must try to make up by getting payment in dollars for what she sells to other countries.

Assistance to European countries through the European recovery program helps in this, though the course of American policy is not clear in all respects. Also, Canada is suffering somewhat from the same dollar-short countries which have not yet got E.R.P. aid and which have put restrictions on what they will buy from Canada.

Total Canadian sales to the United States in the first three months of this year were $421,533,000, compared with $220,237,000 in the similar period of 1947, an advance of more than 31 per cent. For the first three months of the year the unfavorable trade balance with the United States was $107,900,000, compared with $203,200,000 in the same period of 1947.

Expect Record In Forest Production In British Columbia

VICTORIA.—British Columbia's forest production is headed for a record-smashing year. This is apparent from statistics now available.

B.C. forest service figures for production during the first three months of this year showed the log scale at 762,484,174 feet. During the corresponding period of 1947 production was 721,062,257 feet.

Also produced during the first three months of this year were 6,794,598 linear feet of poles, 29,202 cords of fuel wood and 107,370 hewn ties. Log production for the corresponding period of 1947 was 12,745,427 linear feet, while fuel production was 35,811 cords and hewn tie production 100,727.

Record Established In Births During 1947

OTTAWA.—Statistics kept the stork busy last year.

The bureau of statistics reported there were more babies born in Canada in 1947 than in any other year.

Population figures showed 327,700 live births were registered in 1947 throughout the Dominion, compared with 330,732 in 1946, the previous record year.

BABY TALK BRINGS ABOUT SPEECH DEFECTS

VANCOUVER.—Baby talk among seven and eight-year-old children is not cute. Along with lisping and other speech defects, it should be corrected as early as possible.

This advice was given by Mrs. Eliza Webb, supervisor of speech correction in Vancouver public schools, in a talk to Vancouver Kindergarten Teachers' Association.

LOCUSTS DEVOUR THIRD OF CORN CROP AT GUATEMALA GUATEMALA.—Vast swarms of locusts have descended on Guatemala and threatened Mexico. The locusts ate their way through El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua. The director-general of agriculture said they probably would devour more than a third of the Guatemalan corn crop.

Modern Weekly Newspaper Plays Important Role In Its Community

The man who edits and publishes the modern Canadian weekly is keenly aware that his newspaper, no longer a little sheet of personal items and scraps of advertising, is a vital force in his community with both responsibilities and a position to maintain. In striking contrast to the old conception of the average weekly editor—green-visored, cynical with bitter pen and ingrown disposition, and an almost glorified well-wisher in civic affairs, who was practically everybody in town by first name and family tree. His age may be anywhere from 25 to 80 years, his staff may be himself alone or 40 people; the average is five or six. He is probably a member of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

All this was quite evident to anyone attending the recent national convention of the C.W.N.A. Listening to more than 500 editors in conference, in casual conversational shop talk, in the socials, in the evening sing-song, the tremendous potential of the weekly newspaper made itself definitely felt. These were men, it was solidly shown, who knew that on their shoulders rested the monumental work of recording in lead the heartbreaks of their communities.

At this convention, the editors found themselves in the movies. National Film Board cameras and lights were trained on them for commercial sees and, indeed, in the "Canada Carries On Production," "The Home Town Paper". Of this motion picture the editors went home and talked—and wrote—since it was something new in films about news.

Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P., a member of the Council, said persons who visit the Territories without proper "know-how" and equipment usually have to be looked after by the R.C.M.P.

Commissioner S. T. Wood of the R.C.M.P., a member of the Council, said persons who visit the Territories without proper "know-how" and equipment usually have to be looked after by the R.C.M.P.

Many of these editors saw "The Home Town Paper" and whether they were from the West, the Prairies, Ontario, Quebec or the Maritimes, they recognized themselves in the editor on the screen, and the people they knew in the Home Town Paper.

"The Home Town Paper" was filmed by the National Film Board in Vernon, B.C., and stars the Vernon News, selected by NFB in co-operation with the C.W.N.A. in actual business.

Above are four scenes from "The Home Town Paper" upper left, the make-up man sets the lead type to a page to record the heart-beat of the community. Upper right, a reporter records a local business man's prize-winning catch. Lower left is a typical home town morning street scene. Beside it, high school students cooperate in getting out the vote, use a map of the town to allow voters in enlivening the municipal election.

Sixteen Japanese Mines Destroyed Off Coast

OTTAWA—Sixteen Japanese mines have been picked up and destroyed off the British Columbia coast in the past two years, Defence Minister Claxton told the Commons in reply to a question by J. L. Gibson (Ind.-Comox-Alberni).

The situation was still being watched carefully, he said.

KAMLOOPS TROUT THRIVE IN ONTARIO WATERS

TORONTO.—Kamloops trout, introduced into Ontario waters from British Columbia, are thriving, the provincial fish and wildlife division said.

The first spawn collection, completed recently, was up to expectations and has given a good start on the restocking of Ontario waters, the division said in a statement.

Certificates For Reserve Army Men

OTTAWA.—Thousands of reserve army men who spent their spare time at military training camps during the Second World War will receive official recognition of their services, the government has decided.

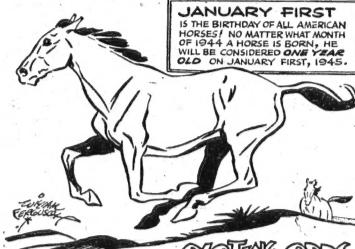

It will be a certificate expressing the government's thanks, bearing signatures of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Defence Minister Claxton.

Only those serving with the reserve forces for not less than 10 days between the start and end of hostilities are entitled to apply for a certificate, army headquarters said.

A FARM STORAGE TANK DOESN'T "COST" IT PAYS!

A farm storage tank pays 5 ways. First and foremost, it permits you to buy and store enough fuel at one time to be sure of having a supply on hand when you need it. No costly delays when tractors stand idle, waiting for fuel to be delivered.

Second, it helps to keep fuel clean and avoid plugging of fuel lines and carburetors with grit, dust or water. The tank can be mounted with enough slant to cause any impurities to settle away from the outlet.

Third, it saves time in re-fueling tractors and trucks, if the tank is mounted overhead. Gravity flow is quicker than pumping or pouring. And fourth, it prevents the spillage of the pump-and-pail method . . . or the wastage of the "last gallon" that is often left in the bottom of each barrel.

Last but not least, a farm storage tank pays in added safety, because it can be located well away from house, barn or sheds.

Tanks come in three sizes. The price is reasonable. See your Imperial Oil Agent.

Bringing American Dollars to Canada

In 1947 Canada's trade with the United States exceeded two and three quarter billion dollars. It is the heaviest two-way trade in the world. Canada's need for American dollars to sustain this trade is vital.

Who brings American dollars to Canada? People who make and export goods; and people who cater for tourists.

And, of course, your bank helps . . . by financing business and industry to expand production for export. This is one of the many ways in which Canada's system of competitive banking serves the Canadian people.
